

Slowly changing dimension type 2

SCD2 keeps the history: a row is closed with an end date when its tracked attributes change, and a new row is inserted with the new values.

A row is never updated in place, so a point-in-time query reconstructs any past state.